MILLION YEARLY COST OF FIGHT ON FRUIT PESTS

California Official Talks of His State's Interest in Hawaii Campaign

One million dollars is being spent every year by the State of California in fighting against the ravages of the many insects that are threatening the fruit-growing industry of the country, says the Los Angeles Examiner. The Horticultural Commission is keeping a vigilant eye on the pests that are working such destruction not only in California, but in all parts of the world, and in every way possible are seeking to exterminate all the influences which are at work with such disastrous effect. Among the preventive methods that are being used were mentioned by A. J. Cook, State horticultural commissioner, in the course of a lecture at the State Normal School in San Jose, was the prohibiting from the country of all pest-infested fruit.

In the Hawaiian Islands the Mediterranean fruit fly is working considerable damage to the fruit, although the main fruit industry, that of pineapple growing, is not seriously affected. As far as known the fly doesn't affect the pineapple. No complete assurances, however, can yet be given on this point and it may be discovered that the pineapple also suffers from the ravages of this most dangerous fly. Great attention has been paid by the commission to the Hawaiian Islands, and not a thing that can be done is left undone with the object of preventing the Mediterranean fly coming to this country to bring the disaster that it has brought to the fruit of the islands.

"A sum of $8500," Dr. Cook said, "has been sent out there to fight the pest, and although many people do not agree with this, when the matter is gone into it is seen that it is no reckless or uncalculated expenditure. Everything that can be done must be done to prevent the fly getting well established in this country, for once that happens the difficulty of fighting against it and counteracting its great influence is considerably increased and almost an impossible task. Wherever this fly has been taken or has found its way it has flourished tremendously, and it is not only in the Mediterranean that it carries out its ravages successfully and to the great loss of the fruitgrowers.

Nine Experts Employed.

"Nine men of the Horticultural Commission are at work in the Hawaiian Islands. They are clever men who have studied the business in which they are engaged and are proficient in it. It is their duty to do all they can to prevent the transportation of the fly to this country and to also help at the same time the fruitgrowers of the islands. They are plucking tons of fruit and burning it with the object of getting rid of the pest, and although, of course, this is a great financial loss, it is absolutely necessary to prevent a far greater loss.

"Another part of their duty is to see that no fruit that is infested by the pest is shipped. In this respect they are very strict and it takes a clever person to pass by them with any fruit unless they are aware of the fact. This branch of the work is considered so important that a special session of the Legislature was called so that more stringent ruling could be obtained. At the special session the only business that was transacted was passing a law so that a more thorough search could be made of anyone leaving the country. Now the men are able to go through the pockets of a person as he leaves, and they absolutely refuse to allow any of the fruit subject to infection by the Mediterranean fly to be either shipped from the country or taken away by anyone."

The speaker mentioned that he is at the head of 400 commissioners in this State, all working on the same lines as he had described.

Protecting Growers.

"They are men who have made a great study of the insects that attack fruit and methods of fighting them. Great work is being accomplished and they are saving the people of the State an enormous amount and are working in a manner that will prevent the possible wiping out of the whole fruit-growing industry of the country. They are looking into matters that it is absolutely essential should be looked into in the interests of the fruit raisers, and it is particularly desirable that the cooperation and the interest of the people should be enlisted and that they should be alive to the great importance of this great work.

"There are parts of Australia and New Zealand where the industry of fruit-growing has been completely wiped out by insects, and this might have been prevented if attention had been paid to the methods of preventing their ravages. This, however, was not done and the loss to the farmer has been considerable. It is far more wise to spend money in fighting these insects than lose a whole industry of a country by refusing to spend money in this direction.

"The commissioners of this State are clever men who are alive to the importance of the work and full of enthusiasm."

CORPORATIONS PAID U. S. TAXES, SAVED PILIKIA

It was fortunate for the corporations of Hawaii that all made proper excuse duly returns in due time to the internal revenue collector before the close of the last fiscal year, June 30. Collector Cottrill's unusual record, of obtaining all returns on time, has saved the Hawaiian corporations some serious pilikia, as indicated by a statement received by him from Washington, D. C., showing that recently the federal government has taken up the prosecution of all delinquent companies.

For failure to make a return within the time specified by law a corporation may be fined $1,000 to $10,000, and the ruling of the United States court in the Eastern district of New York, recently given, is that the only remedy from this fine is an appeal or a compromise with the government counsel.

Every corporation, even though it may be defunct, so long as it is not actually dissolved or legally out of existence, must make a return to the collector, and that even though it is unable to show any business transacted.
